

Electrical Program is on Facebook.

I would like to announce that I have created a Facebook <https://www.facebook.com/DBSElectrical/> page for the Idaho Division of Building Safety's Electrical Program. Please follow the link and join us.

These are just a few of things I want to do to facilitate communication with you.

- I will from time to time post frequently asked questions that pertain to the electrical trade. You will also be able to link directly to the Electrical programs frequently asked questions page, from Facebook, for answers to common questions.
- As the need develops, NEC interpretations will be issued from my office and will be announced on this page. By following us you will be able to receive these immediately. This will give you the information you need to know how the Division of Building Safety is interpreting and intends to enforce certain aspects of the code. A link to the official interpretation will be provided in the announcement.
- I will also be mentioning items of interest within the electrical industry that pertain to Idaho electrical professionals. These may include announcements of illegal or counterfeit products being sold in the State of Idaho, things to avoid on installations, or useful items becoming available to the electrical trade in general.
- As Idaho's Electrical Programs rules and procedures evolve, I want the electrical professionals within the state to be informed. You will receive notifications of these along with links to the Division of Building Safety website to find the official additions and changes to rules and procedures.

If you can think of other ideas that would be useful, please don't hesitate to contact me. Feel free to swing by my office, call me or shoot me an email.

One more thing! This is a work in progress so bear with me. Feel free to let others know about this page so we can keep people informed.
